FRIDAY, AUGUST 11, 1916

Hughes has viewed everything with alarm, which causes the Cleveland Plain Dealer to remark that President Wilson can point to everything with pride.

Gov. Willis and former Gov. Cox will again do battle for the Ohio governorship while Senator Pomeroy and U. S. senatorhip will contest for the U. S. senatorship.

At the meeting of the Progressive national committee in Indianapolis last week, called to consider the re-assembly of the party's national convention to nominate a presidential candidate, Burton Vance of Kentucky referred to Theodore Roosevelt as a "traitor" to the Progressive party, a "Judas Iscariot," and declared that the colonel would "go down in history as the greatest Benedict Arnold of this age." That surely was telling the once great chief Bull Moose.

MR. HUGHES ON PREPAREDNESS

Mr. Hughes says he is in favor of "adequate preparedness." This is interesting, but Mr. Hughes should explain what measure of preparedness he considers adequate, and what he would do in this line more than has been or is being done, by President Wilson.

Preparedness depends on money, men and ships.

Administration bills passed or now pending in congress provide $685,340,000 for defense purposes in 1917. Doesn't Mr. Hughes think that is enough? If not, how much would it take to satisfy him?

The army bill put through at the instance of President Wilson doubles the authorized strength of the regular army. Let this seem a partisan judgment, consider the following summary by the Army and Navy Journal: The organization of the regular army under the conference plan will consist of sixty-five regiments on infantry, an increase of thirty-five regiments; twenty-five regiments of field artillery, an increase of ten regiments; twenty-one regiments of field artillery, an increase of fifteen regiments; 30,000 men (the equivalent of ninety-three companies) in the coast artillery eight aero squadrons; seven regiments of engineers, an increase of five regiments, with an additional two battalions of mounted engineers. In fact, the regular army is about doubled, with particular emphasis laid on increasing the field artillery and engineers, technical branches difficult to increase in an emergency.

In addition to this remarkable achievement, the national guard has been federalized, a number of units at West Point doubled to increase the supply of trained officers, and the plan of enlisting the regular army so changed as to provide a reserve. When the new system is in full operation, a regular force of 175,000 men with the colors will give 238,000 trained reserves.

What part of this wonderful programme does Mr. Hughes disapprove? What part would he change? How much would he increase it, and why? The same record of vast and carefully thought out increases is seen in the navy. The bill now before congress is backed by the president provides a three-year building programme to cost $588,000,000. Of this sum, $315,836,843 is to be spent in 1917. The measure provides for ten dreadnaughts—or rather superdreadnaughts, four to be built this year; six battle cruisers, four to be built this year; four destroyers, scout cruisers, submarines, and raises the peace strength of the navy to 74,700 enlisted men, with a proviso that the president may increase this to 87,000 if he deems it necessary.

What is wrong with this programme that Mr. Hughes would not be put in the white house to set it right?

The simple truth is that the Wilson administration has done more for adequate preparedness than all previous administrations since Grover Cleveland laid the foundations of the modern American navy. It is restoring our fleet to the second place among the navies of the world—a place lost under Taft. It has done all that can be accomplished in the way of providing a land force, short of universal training—which Mr. Hughes does not recommend.

In The Journal's judgment, President Wilson has gone about as far in preparedness as conditions justify or as the people will approve. If Mr. Hughes thinks otherwise, let him say so; and let him state clearly and definitely how far he proposes to go. How much money does he wish to spend on the army and navy, how many men does he propose to keep under arms, how many fighting ships does he want built?

Let him present his bill of particulars—and then let the American people pass upon it. Meantime let us have done with windy generalities.—Chicago Journal.

SALEM

William Kirk, known as "Bidge," died Saturday of consumption, aged 43. Some 20 years ago was the crack base ball pitcher in this section.

Garry Greenless has purchased the Sharp farm of 106 acres, south of the city, where he and his family have resided for several years.

During the count by rural mail carriers last month the carrier on route No. 4, as usual, did more business than any of the other five carriers. He delivered 10,226 pieces and collected 960 pieces. No. 1 was second with 9,600 pieces delivered and 1,066 pieces collected.

The Bowman Co. of Cleveland will occupy the old Grove gum factory with a glass grinding plant if the chamber of commerce raises a fund of $1500. The company would employ about 75 people.

Three foreigners were arrested Sunday night while creating a disturbance. One who resisted arrest was fined $20 and costs while another drew $10 and costs. The third could not be identified by officers as one of the offenders.

J. A. Rich attempted to kill John Dilline and his daughter Grace as they sat on their porch one night last week. A bullet struck Dilline in the hand and another just grazed the daughter's head. Neither wound is serious. Rich was taken into custody and claimed to have swallowed poison. He told Chief Cook that his trouble was due to excessive drinking.

Mayor Johnson bound him over to court and default of $1000 bail he was taken to jail in Lisbon. The shooting is said to have resulted from Miss Dilline refusing to accept attention from Rich who has a former ally.

Harry J. Tomlin, of Nebraska, is visiting relatives and friends in Mahoning county. Mr. Tomlin was born and reared in Goshen township and attended school in Canfield. He has for quite a number of years been engaged in banking and is very prosperous.

Henry Bahler, 33, and Michael Gallagher, 45, Salineville miners and heads of families, were killed last Saturday night by a C. & P. switch engine.

A lively campaign is on this week for the sale of chautauqua tickets. The chautauqua tent will be pitched on the Columbia street school grounds.

Many people enjoyed the fine concert given in Centennial park last Sunday afternoon by the Quaker City band.

Mr. May Gerguson of Salineville, who had relatives in this city, died Saturday of paralysis, aged 82.

A semi-professional football team is proposed for the city. Good ad.

F. L. Probert and R. W. Shinn will be janitors of the new high school building.

Don Russell speeded his father's auto on McKinley avenue and was fined a five spot. John Ruffer, living north of the city, drove his car on the wrong side of a street car which people were leaving and he paid the same sum.

In common with other Ohio cities a light vote was polled in this city Tuesday. Primary elections are not popular and it will be surprising if the next legislature enacts a law putting an end to them.

During a storm Tuesday morning lightning struck a power line and set on fire the plant of the Salem Lighting Co., depriving the city of electric current for hours.

Joseph Ream, one of the best known residents of the city, died Tuesday morning following an illness of several months, aged 65. His wife and two daughters survived him. Funeral services Thursday afternoon with burial in Hope cemetery.

Tuesday brought the hottest weather of the season when thermometers registered 94 in the shade.

Dedication of the new high school building on Garfield avenue was a feature of the homecoming harvest festival Oct. 6 and 7.

Dr. and Mrs. Yaggi and his sister will leave Friday with Clifford Zimmerman on a 2000-mile auto trip through the east.

This is the time of year to cut noxious weeds to prevent seeding. An effort is being made to have Fred Croxon, statistician of the state industrial commission, speak here on Labor Day.

Our schools will have no visiting nurse the coming year, the board of education having so decided at its last meeting.

City schools will open Monday, Sept. 11 for the nine months term.

LET MR. HUGHES SPEAK
The thirty-seven authors who signed the memorial to Hughes have done their part in smoking out that elusive gentleman. They have asked him a number of questions which he will find it difficult to answer and dangerous to ignore. He will have to come to war over Belgium. Would he have gone to war over the Lusitania, does he mean to intervene in Mexico, will he try to have the income tax repealed, what does he object to about the federal reserve act? These and many other inquiries are presented to the republican candidate, with a request that he make his replies specific, and not indulge in a blanket criticism.

In this case, at least, the authors have spoken for the nation. Mr. Hughes has no right to try to get into office by a campaign of criticism and a lecture tour of generalities. He owes it to the country to define his policies as clearly and specifically as Mr. Wilson's policies have been defined through his official acts. The literary gentlemen are more practical and far more patriotic than the party footing managers of the ex-justice's campaign. Let Mr. Hughes speak out.

LOCUST GROVE
The men of this community have set Saturday, August 12, to come together at the Locust Grove Baptist Church and clean up the cemetery and surrounding yard. All persons interested in this old burying ground should respond with willing hands and implements suited for such work. This is a public burying ground and this general invitation is urged upon all. Rev. H. B. Hazen.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Huffman of Greenford spent Friday with H. L. Welkart and family.

Mrs. Elsie Welkart has concluded a visit with H. L. Welkart and family and returned to her daughter in Lisbon.

Many a man is thrown in the shade simply because he stands in his own light.

Cure for Cholera Morbus.
"When our little boy, now seven years old, was a baby he was cured of cholera morbus by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Mrs. Sidney Simmons, Fair Haven, N. Y. "Since then other members of my family have used this valuable medicine for colic and bowel troubles with good satisfaction and I gladly endorse it as a remedy of exceptional merit." Obtainable everywhere.—adv.

August 10—M. C. Callahan died at his home in this place on the night of August 9. Deceased was the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Callahan and was born in Green township March 1, 1846, and here most of his life was spent. In 1862, at the age of 16 years, he enlisted in Co. A, 125th O. V. I., and served until the close of the civil war in 1865, making for himself a most honorable record. On Jan. 17, 1864, he was severely wounded in battle and left on the field for dead. He revived, however, and was taken to the home of Judge Swan and when he had sufficiently recovered in March of the same year rejoined his regiment. On July 3, 1868, he was married to Miss Persannah Hahn of Springfield township and on the third of last month they celebrated their golden wedding. Four sons were born to them—Delmont, Emmor, Perry and Ray, who, with the wife and two grandsons, survive. Mr. Callahan was for a good many years engaged in the real

He revived, however, and was taken to the home of Judge Swan and when he had sufficiently recovered in March of the same year rejoined his regiment. On July 3, 1868, he was married to Miss Persannah Hahn of Springfield township and on the third of last month they celebrated their golden wedding. Four sons were born to them—Delmont, Emmor, Perry and Ray, who, with the wife and two grandsons, survive. Mr. Callahan was for a good many years engaged in the real estate and insurance business and had a wide circle of acquaintances and friends. Largely attended funeral services held from the family home Sunday afternoon were conducted by Rev. H. C. Brillhart of the Leetonia Lutheran church while members of Treseott Post, G. A. R., of Salem, of which the deceased was a member, carried out their ritual, and Greenford Lodge, K. of P., had its service at the grave in the center cemetery.

Miss Alice Davis and May Miller of Terre Haute, Ind., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Hively over Sunday and Monday evening, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Hively, took an auto ride to Salem visiting friends there. Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Hively took them to Niles to visit relatives and from that place they will return to Terre Haute.

Miss Edna and Merl Schnurrenberger of Salem were in the village Wednesday afternoon calling on old friends.

Walter Filcraft of Salem is here assisting his sister, Mrs. L. N. Rhodes, in the care of their aged father, Levi Filcraft, who is seriously ill.

Many friends here of Wm. Jenkins were disappointed that he was unable to land the republican nomination for sheriff.

Walter Hively and family and R. H. Clay and family attended the McEl-dowly reunion held Wednesday in Warren.

George Hively of Cleveland is here visiting his parents.

Charles Clay is superintending the repairs on the building purchased by the board of education for school-house purposes.

A citizen who travels over the entire township reports the following notice posted on the fence: "This oats was treated for smut without proper damage to the crop, which increased the yield from 5 to 25 per cent." The informant states that he saw in his travels through the township.

John Walter had the misfortune to lose a valuable horse last week. The animal broke a leg and had to be shot.

E. N. Beardsley had two valuable horses killed by lightning during the shower Tuesday morning and a third horse was badly injured.

Rev. Huber of Lakewood, Ohio, will preach in the Lutheran church Sunday morning, Aug. 20. After the services there will be a congregational meeting for the purpose of electing a pastor.

But little interest was manifested in the primaries Tuesday, only about 20 per cent of the vote being cast. 15 republican and 26 democrat votes were polled.

The 37th annual reunion of the Roller family will be held at Riverside, Stop 9, Y. & O. R. R. Thursday, Aug. 17.

The 30th anniversary of the Kyeer reunion will be celebrated Saturday, Aug. 19, at Elkton bridge.

During the remainder of August a special discount will be given on Dr. Hess and Clark's stock and poultry food at Hahn's store.—adv.

Don't forget the festival to be held in the park Saturday evening for the benefit of the Christian church. The Greenford cornet band will furnish music for the occasion.

Next Sunday morning the members of the Christian church will motor to Mineral Ridge and attend services at the Christian church in that place which Rev. A. O. Henry is pastor. At noon dinner will be served on Rev. Henry's lawn and the afternoon will be spent in a social manner.

M. G. Huffman was in Canton Saturday and Sunday attending the doctrinal congress held at the Christian church.

Rev. A. O. Henry of Mineral Ridge was a Sunday dinner guest at Joseph Yaeger's.

Mr. Can't Afford, Attention!

OCCASIONALLY the Chautauqua Committee finds a man who says he can't afford to attend the Chautauqua. This advertisement is addressed to him.

When a man's house needs painting he paints it. It isn't a question of whether he can afford to paint just then. He borrows the money, if need be, to paint, for he knows he can't afford not to paint.

When a man is sick he gets the doctor. Even if his bank account is as sick as he is, he knows he can't afford not to have the doctor, even though he thinks he can't afford to have him.
